Farmers in the best agricultural sections do not depend upon a single crop. If they are near to marnot impoverished. On the contrary they are likely in tit. to live well, to have money for the education of their children and money for banking or for investment besides. They own the land they till, and procured it before it had advanced to a fancy figure. Those growth in a few hours. who bought $100 land at $300 or $400 per acre have found vain the effort to realize profits. They are in the position of concerns that seek to pay dividends on watered stock and cannot do so, yet that might pay good returns on a proper valuation.

It is true that the spectacle of abandoned farms saddens the traveler. For the most part such farms never were fertile. They never were, save by coursterile and the seasons there, forbidding. That bet- and bosom friend and literary executor of Lafcadio ter lands could be had farther west began long ago to be the excuse for abandoning stoney fields. In the west the abandoned farm is due largely to the effort to make crops grow where nature has decreed crops shall not grow. Dry farming in the northwest was undertaken as an experiment. The outcome was grievous. There might be a crop one year in five, but this was not enough to sustain the farmer. Dry farming so-called, requires water. Where nature has withheld the water such farming cannot succeed unless there shall be contrived an artificial method of supplying the lack. Yet the land useless for grain was excellent for grazing. So the buffalo found it, and so domestic cattle found it later, until driven off by the plowman.

The abandoned farms have nothing to do with the price of wheat, for they could not grow wheat nor any other grain. They were abandoned because flattered when classed as agricultural. It would take distinguished, genial and friendly, especially to any more than an advance in the price of wheat to cause one who knew the writings of Lafcadio Hearn and them to be populated again. Nevertheless the price loved them; so he and I became friends.

Mussolini made arbitrary demands on Greece. He assumed the government to have been guilty of the Janina murders. COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A cable from Biarritz tells of a shameful and vulgar spectacle there. The accounts sets forth, as though something to be realized with pride, the part taken by Americans in an affair that reflected upon the intelligence of every participant. The affair was a ball. Note the correspondent's enthusiasm:

"The jewels worn by Americans alone totalled millions in value, while the costumes were the most elaborate seen in years. The disguise as a Russian princess worn by Louise Clews was alone said to have been worked with more than a pint of diamonds and emeralds. . . The Brokaw gisls and Louise Clews furnished the sensation of the ball by taking part in a Russian 'circus' as snake charmers, handling live serpents."

This display of wanton luxury in a world suffering in large part to the verge of despair cannot-but shock the senses by its brazen callousness. Diamonds by the pint to portray a Russian princess, while the women once Russian princesses died misequally or survive in abject poverty; rather a sinister bit of heartless-

In relation to the famous letter of Hiram Johnson there is an effort to raise a smoke screen hiding the real issue. The letter may have been procured in this way or that. The getting of it may have involved trickery. This is a matter for the conscience of the active agency in the scheme. The public, having more important things to think about, cares nothing about these details.

All interest centers in the fact that the letter was written. The fact that it was written is not to be changed by the effort to put on trial a lot of persons concerning whose guilt or innocence there is no concern. The old trick of attacking the witness so as to distract attention from the defendant, is quite played out.

A wealthy woman who never had occasion to earn a dollar, and never knew what it was to be embarrassed financially no matter what the exigency to be met; who has lived always in the midst of luxury, and is withal, reputed to have a somewhat acrid disposition, is not a fair representative of womanhood. Indeed, she is as far from the ideal as Rose Pastor Stokes, the fervid agitator who generally is skirting the gates of the prison, and occasionally finds herself on the wrong side of the door.

It will puzzle some thoughtful people to understand why Phillip Valentine should be paroled from the penitentiary with his short term but half served.

This young man was a joy rider of the most reckless type. After many offenses, he ran over a young woman so injuring her that she lost a leg. The general belief was that he was drunk at the time. He was sentenced for "from one to three years." The maximum was exceedingly mild. For the good of his soul and the safety of the public, he should have been permitted to serve it.

According to the Rev. Basil Newton the ku klux has 227 members in the house of representatives. Another impressive authority states that five members of the Harding cabinet members were members, and that one initiation ceremony had taken place in the White House.

The natural and really proper answer to this pair is withheld. There is an impulse to give them their proper designation, but some readers might not like to see the word in print.

MEET GALLS 25

Final arrangements for the participation of about twenty-five members of the Glendale Realty Board in the caravan that will leave San, Fernando on the morning of October 9, for Sacramento, where the convention of the State Realty Association will be held from October 10 to 13 inclusive, are slowly being made. Dr. Jessie A. Russell, who has charge of the delegation from the San Fernando Valley, stated at the meeting of the Glendale Realty Board Wednesday noon, that possibly ten firms in this valley outside of Glendale, will be represented in this caravan.

One of the features preparatory to this trip will be the entertaining by the Glendale Realty board members of those of the San Fernando Valley delegation, outside of this This entertainment will be soon and will be for the purpose of getting the members of this valley's section of the caravan better acquainted.

At yesterday's meeting Dr. Russell stated that the caravan would leave San Fernando at 7:30 o'clock on the morning of October 9. The first stop will be made at Bakersfield. The caravan will assemble just before entering Bakersfield and will go into the city intact.

The second stop will be made at Fresno, where the stop for the night will be effectied. In fact the caravan will leave Fresno and will journey as nearly in a body as possible to Sacramento. Defore entering the capitol the caravan will reassemble and proceed into the city as a unit.

A meeting of those intending making this trip to Sacramento was held last night at the office of Twining & Myers on South Brand. Plans were formulated for special features and other details were attended to.

J. I. Wernette was selected to give the talk on the accomplishments of the board during the past year before the convention. President Cameron Thom was chosen as the delegate from the board to the convention.

At this meeting a letter was received from the Real Estate Clearing House, but after some discussion the communication was tabled Peter Hanson, chairman of the publicity committee, brought up the matter of securing a cut of a relief map of Southern California, featuring Glendale to be used on the letterheads of the members of the board, and authority was given to have the cut made. On motion of Realtor Truitt, it was decided to close the membership campaign on October 17. Up to that time the $15 initiation fee will be accepted. Mr. Truitt stated that he believes a hundred new members will result from the cam-paign. Plans were laid for a reception to the new members, this to be held after the close of the other than business districts.

The Photodrama Beautiful!

In Andree Lafayette, the Trilby of George Du Maurier's novel lives again—from the crown of her golden head to the tip of her perfect feet, You'll want to see this Trilby-you'll want to be held by the magic of her entrancing story. Hers is the romance undying.

The story of a career influenced by five loves-one, pure and honorable; the second, a fatherly affection; the third, hopeless infatuation; the fourth, like the worship of a dog for its master; the fifth, sinister. A different sort of a picture than you've ever before seen!

REHEARSALS FOR "DREAMLAND" ARE COMING ON FINE

"Oh, You Glendale Boy" is the title of the high school number that promises to be one of the hits of the forthcoming community pa-geant, "A Night in Dreamland," which is to be staged at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse on the nights of October 10 and 11, under the auspices of St. Mark's guild. Many high school students are expected to attend the rehearsals to be held tonight at 246 North Brand boulevard, when Director Wellington will give the first instruction on this important number of the pageant.

The rehearsal held last night attracted many new people for the cast which promises to number 300 adults and children. Among the parts assigned was the role of the shopper at the movie show, which role has been placed in the hands of Mrs. B. O. Holbrook. Other characters in the feature com-edy act entitled "Fun at the Movies" include Miss Muriel Gambriel as the ticket seller, William E. Welz as the blind beggar, J. B. Jones as a cow puncher, Salvation Army lassies, school girls and the blue law dames groups are not yet complete. Perhaps the most artis-tic number of the mammoth production is the Rose Garden scene in which twenty of Glendale's most beautiful girls will appear as Am-

Last night's rehearsal was perhaps the snappiest that has been held for the affair. Visitors are welcome but if you have rheumatism and a nervous disposition, it would be safer to stay away, because Director Wellington is just as likely as not to put you in the play as a French doll or the street sweeper. However, an hour spent with "Dreamland" is a sure cure for a grouch.

THE BUBBLE TROUBLE

I've my share of trouble earthful But so many things are worthful I am given to be mirthful As I go upon my way. am very fond of dining, And of languorous reclining, And the sun for me is shining When it's not a cloudy day.

There is no delight in croaking. There is always fun in joking, And there's pleasure in invoking Dreams of rare and rosy hues. could be a cynic bitter If I choose to, or a guitter, But the birds without there twitter In their branches: "It's no use!"

I've no doubt but I could double Quite my quantity of trouble. But a trouble's but a bubble That soon vanishes from sight. I could probably be tearful If I wanted to, or fearful, But I can as well be cheerful If I go about it right.

So I get each day a measure Of quite philosophic pleasure Just by laying up a treasure Of the sunshine on my way. That will comfort me hereafter And attune my voice to laughter, That shall ring from floor to rafter When shall come a cloudy day.

FAMOUS "TRILBY" COMING TO THE T. D. & L. TODAY

The Puritan of Paris! That is the sobriquet given by the Hollywood colony of motion picture stars to Andree Lafayette, the beautiful Parisienne who plays the title role in Richard Walton Tully's superb production of Du Maurier's immortal story, "Trilby," now being presented at the T., D. & L. Theater.

The French beauty is a most unusual young lady, especially in her attitude toward life. In striking contrast to the viewpoint of American girl of today, mademoiselle who is just nineteen, insists upon retiring at ten o'clock. She has served notice on the many friends and admirers in Hollywood who would entertain her, that she will attend no "party" or other function which she cannot leave promptly at 9 o'clock.

The French star realizes that early hours and plain living make for health and argues convincingly that without good health she can-not hope to buffet the strains incident to reaching the uppermost heights of success in her profession. And that is her laudable ambition. Incidentally, Andree Lafayette is a vegetarian. And she

"BRIGHT SHAWL" STAR ATTRACTION AT THE GATEWAY

The meanest of motion picture villains is portrayed by Anders Randolf, famous "heavy," in his role of Santacilla, a Spanish army captain, in Richard Barthelmess new starring vehicle, "The Bright Shawl," to be shown at the Gate-way Theater today. The story is laid in Cuba in the days when the iron heel of Spanish oppression had not yet been cast off by that sorely pressed Santacilla is not the ordinary type of villain. Such commonplace pleasure of cuffing, kicking and beating whomsoever might come in the way are not up to the standards of Santacilla. He is a human fiend who prefers such clever little "jokes" as pressing the burning end of a cigar against the hand of a waiter and making the waiter like it; or viciously kicking under the table with his steel spurs the knees of his feminine companion and making her smile despite the tears in her eyes.

A nice sociable sort of chap is Santacilla, who laughs as he slips a knife into the side of the beautiful Spanish dancer who has de- liant acting of all the many charceived him But he, too, died.
